

'Hold the Oil on Canvas by Michael

The Marble Bar has been a superb work of art since it was built in 1893.

Funded by the successful Tattersall's sweep, the bar was first named George Adams Bar after its talented builder.

It cost a then astronomical 32,000 pounds to build.

Following traditions of Italian Renaissance, the bar is one of the world's most beautiful.

With tones of the best quality marble from Belgian and African quarries, cedar joinery and stained pictorial glass frames, it has created an opulent ambience which to this day still rivals any other.

Adding to this is an elaborate plaster ceiling and 13 Julian Ashton paintings, which all helped the bar to receive an "A" rating from the National Trust of Australia.

In 1968, the bar was dismantled, refurbished and rebuilt inside the Hilton Sydney.

For years, Marble Bar's reputation grew due to its amazing atmosphere, great drinks, and in the later years live music.

In 2002, the old Hilton Sydney closed its doors to begin a $200 million dollar renovation, and for the next two and a half years, the Marble Bar was encased in concrete to preserve its pristine quality.

Today the Marble Bar is a great place to relax, enjoy a wide selection of premium drinks and cocktails, soak up the atmosphere, and party to the live music.
